Keep the nauseating potions from your system. Drugs are unnatural! The dumb brute, guided by his instinct, will have no drugs. The horse must be tied and bound and forced to swallow drugs by choking off his wind. And yet this same horse will pass by the poisonous weed and eat the food grasses alongside. His instinct tells him to avoid the poisonous weed. His instinct also tells him to avoid the drugs. The instinct in human nature is to keep drugs from the stomach, but this instinct has been dimmed by beliefs exploited by "quacks" seeking to sell their medicines. Your ancestors were bled when they were sick, but instinct and knowledge rebelled against this—just as it is rebelling against drugs. There is but one way to cure. That way is to give the weakened and diseased body the aid it needs, instead of impeding the body with drugs. The one way is in vibration—just natural rubbing. If you have a pain just see how good it feels to have somebody rub you. The rubbing brings the blood to the spot where it is needed. The congestion (which causes the pain) is dissolved and the pain ceases. But when the pain becomes great, ordinary rubbing we "t do. Then vibration, the great natural rubbing, must be used—vibration which gets right into the spot where the pain is and brings the blood in greater and greater quantities until the cause of the pain is washed away and you have that supreme feeling of relaxation—of delight—of health.
